

The impact of Britain in Australia

How it began

The British settlers said Australia was nobody's land but the Australia's or ready there refused so the British subdued the lands laws proving it to be nobody's land by stenting to be without treaty or payment. The process of colonisation began in 1788. A fleet of 11 ships, containing 736 convicts, some British troops and a governor set up the first colony of New South Wales. It was an incredibly risky idea. ... By colonising Australia Britain gained an important base for its ships in the Pacific Ocean.

The history of Jojo

Before JoJo existed

So jojo first started out as normal and then there was a species of human called pillarmen they were the perfect beings but sunlight kills them. While that happens the aztecs made a mask and the pillarmen were like hipity hoppity this mask is my property. And then they slept in the stone for like 10,000 years.

Phantom blood.

So basically a bunch of posh people aka the joestars nearly died in a carriage crash but the dad joseph joe star lived and the mother saved the child instead of her self. (and she made a VERY good choice there) Then a thief and his wife came along expecting they were dead the thief stole a ring and the wife didn't want to and then George joestar finally wakes up to the thief. He thought the thief was saving him so he protected him with his life and then young Jonathon joestar aka JoJo grew up. They were doing usual posh people stuff. Meanwhile back in the thieves family aka the brandos got a note from the joestars saying come along (because his dad was so abusive the child in the family dio poisoned his father for killing his mother) and then dio came in a carriage and then gets greeted and proceed to kick danny the dog. Then JoJo tells him off to his father and George joestar said it was only an accident its fine. This is were the rivalry begins . Dio goes to dinner and George says TABLE MANNERS throughout the time. There was also a mysterious mask on the wall made of stone with George bought probably thinking it looked cool. And then they grow up they play rugby and jojo is studying the mask and he sees whenever he put blood on it some spikes appear and they are meant to pierce the head and then dio remember how much he hates jojo and jojo thinks the same about dio. Dio then proceeds to poison George too (dio level 2 poisoning am I right) And then dio gets hold of the research to be continued..

How works.

This is me..... Well I should say my Roblox avatar. I am going to explain how to use Roblox.

*computer/PC/Phone

*Roblox

The things you need are either a mobile or a computer. You need to search up on google 'Roblox'; there will be a link to the Roblox sign in screen. Click on it and it will take you to a place where you can put in your username and your password, then your date of birth and your gender.

Make sure you don't give anyone your personal information.

When you're in you can change your avatar in the avatar shop, most items cost Robux but if you change the relevance to prices (low to high) there will be loads of free items. Go back to the avatar icon on the left of your screen and you can equip some of the things you just got. But now to the fun part if you look at the top of your screen you can see something called 'games' near to the left, click on it and it will bring you to a page with 100s of games. There is way more, but thats when you have to search the games up, theres games ranging from anime, adventure, action, mysterious and sports and so much more like obbys, tycoon,simulator,horror there not that scary though, if they were it wouldn't be a 7 rated game, so Roblox is a PG rated game but most people would be allowed to play unless your like 3 or something like that.

But now I think you're all set to have a wonderful experience with Roblox, Bye now.

KAT!
54%295

Sea's Difficulty Chart Obby 54%295

but the games i like the most are murder games and obbys but the obbys i like are different there called difficulty chart obbys, and im just going to say this me and yakub are kinda insane at them, there basically this thing where you are doing an obby but the first few levels are really easy then it goes to medium, hard, insane, godly then like alot more its like a never ending obby, but my favourite game is KAT its like a murder game where you have a knife and a gun you can throw the knife or stab them normally, you can shoot them with the gun, and theres different maps and gamemodes, like murder mystery, where theres innocents and 1 murderer and 1 sherrif, the sherrif has to shoot the murderer before they kill everyone.And the murderer has to kill everyone, and then theres elimination when you have one life and you have to kill all the online players.And there's normal when you can respawn, and im really good at KAT.

How to care for musk turtles

By Mayah Choudhury - Wednesday 3rd March 2021

About the turtles

Musk turtles are small, common turtles that only grow to approximately 10 cm. They require a lot of space, love and attention so if you are thinking about getting musk turtles be prepared to have to clean the tank every other week, and feed them everyday. Another siding factor is that they live for between 30-50 years so be willing to look after them; and not toss them aside when you get bored.

- Temperature
- basking areas
- Tanks
- Food
- Solitary, or in groups?

Filter

A filter is a very important component in looking after a turtle. It keeps the tank clean and fresh, destroying from the smallest of chemicals to the largest of dead leaves. There are three types of filters:

- Mechanical
- Biological
- Chemical

Mechanical

A mechanical filter strains any solid waste in your tank and then releases the clean water back into your tank. There are three different chambers in a mechanical filtration system. The largest chamber has a sponge inside with large holes (around the size of a pinkie nail). The medium sized chamber has a sponge inside but the holes are so small you can only just about see them. The smallest chamber is designed to filter the small particles; so the holes in the sponge are so small that you can't even make them out.

Biological

The biological filtration system comes from the plants and healthy bacteria inside of your tank. The plants and bacteria will break down the chemicals and they will be processed into your mechanical filtration system. Having real plants (as opposed to plastic ones) inside your tank is really important as your turtles might eat them as well as play and hide amongst them.

Chemical

The chemical filtration system breaks down all the toxic chemicals in your tank. As opposed to having this filtration system in your tank 24/7 chemical filtration systems are just liquids that you pour into your tank. They contain anti-chlorine, etc. They are very effective, however be cautious about the amount you put in; too little won't clean the whole tank but too much might harm the turtles. Overall it's probably best to put too little in.

Temperature

The temperature of the tank is a really important component for looking after a turtle. They require a fair amount of heat; and they might try and huddle around your heater if they are cold. If they are doing this, try turning up the heat a tad. They also might burrow under the gravel at the bottom of your tank (depending if you decide to have gravel or bare-bottom) if so, try turning the heat up. They need from roughly 20°C to 25°C. Anywhere in between is fine.

Basking area

Most turtles require a basking area; a place for them to sit and dry of under a UV light. Your basking area can range from a log floating above water, to a rock, so long as its always dry. Your turtles will be thankful as well as happy.

Tanks

Tanks can be tricky. You will need at least a 30 gallon tank for a single hatchling however, I would try and get around a 65 gallon for 2 hatchlings. This will give them space to bask, swim and leave plenty of space for logs, plants, etc. Don't forget that its not about what looks pretty, its about what's best for your turtle.

Decoration

You will probably want gravel/or sand at the bottom of your tank. With gravel its best to get gravel thats bigger than the turtle's head, for they might try and eat it. Before you put the gravel/or sand into your tank you must wash it thoroughly to get rid of dust, and things that may contaminate your tank, and make it cloudy. This is including shop-brought decorations.

I would not recommend plastic plants as your turtles might eat them and that would be harmful for them. Real plants not only look nicer, are better for the turtles to play with. I would stay away from little caves filled with water inside your tank. The turtles could get stuck inside, and they also need to breathe air so that could potentially be extremely harmful as they could suffocate.

Food

I would recommend 'aquatic turtle juvenile floating pellets'. Not only do my turtles love them, they are filled with multiple vitamins, high in protein, they also have advanced yeast extract which helps with digestion. You only have to feed them one of these pellets a day. You will be able to feed them this till they grow to 6cm long. You can get lots of different types of turtle food online, that will be equally as good. They will also eat some of the plants in your tank. Be careful getting more than one, as they might try to steal one anothers food.

Solitary or in groups?

Finally, I will explain whether musk turtles enjoy being together or are solitary animals. Its best to have 2 females, but at early ages of their life you will not be able to tell. They are okay on their own, however I have two hatchlings and they are fine together. They not only enjoy each others company, they play together. But getting two adult males, might be problematic, as they might possibly fight. A male and a female will reproduce, so ideally you want two females.

Conclusion

I love my two baby musk turtles; they are a joy to watch, and they are so adorable. They love to play and have fun, and have two individually unique personalities.]

Rocket League

Jarvis

Rocket league is one of the most popular games in the world since epic games bought psyonix and psyonix had rocket league. Shortly after they added season 2 and they made a new map, a new decal, and the new rocket pass. In the rocket pass you can get goal explosions, boost, and ever new cars. You can play with your friends or on your own and play 1s, 2s, 3s and 4s. If you get bored of those then you can play extra modes which are rumble, hoops, dropshot and snow day.

If you don't want to play that and you just want to play with your friends go into a private match and play whatever you want like you can get infinite boost, make the ball HUGE, play with bots and tons more stuff you can do in private matches. Epic games even made it free to play on September 26th and it still is free to play. If you don't want to do any of those things, then just watch RLCS were pros play in tournaments so go ahead and pick a team. Or go in tournaments yourself or with your friends and get tournament credits to get crates and get tons of more stuff. Get it now before you have to buy it and get it soon because rocket league is making season 3 and you won't want to miss it.
